

171 Lloyds Road, FRANKLIN

Build The Country Dream With Great Views

Positioned within close proximity to the township of Franklin is this light bush block of around 13 acres. It has been used as a pine plantation and that was cleared around 3 years ago. There are excellent Huon River and surrounding valley views to be had from across the top side of the block.

Access around the block is quite good as well as there is a good track in place that runs around three sides of the block, just overgrown in some places but makes a great start for access around and block perimeter to where you decide to build for a new driveway start point. Power is also close as there is a line that runs along the bottom of the block to a property behind.

From the Title and online maps available there are a couple of gazetted roads that run past the property so you have the options to investigate access from either Lloyds Road or via Smyley and Deering Street as there has been a property built there above this property.

The property is a separate Title that currently forms part of 171 Lloyds Road Franklin, we have included this addressed street number to enable you to locate the general area of property and for your investigations, maps are also available for you upon your request, however exactly locating the property may provide some challenges. A great option in the market today topped off with some pretty good views and choice of home sites are all yours.
